QU'APPELLE PROGRESS.

Thursday, May 16, 1895.

NOTES OF THE DOMINION.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST PICKED UP HERE AND THERE.

Collected From the Writings of the Dominion and Condensed for the Information of the Reading Public.

Miami cattle shorthorns have been arrested.

A woman met with a fatal accident in Toronto.

More incendiaries have been discovered in Toronto.

American counsel will not be allowed in the Hyams case.

Southern Manitoba farmers are rejoiced at crop prospects.

A freight train was derailed on the N. P. railway near St. Norbert.

The Canada Southern and T. H. and B. railways are to be amalgamated.

A steamer bound for Victoria, B. C., containing Methodist delegates, is overdue.

Interruption to traffic was caused by the carrying away of the new canal gates at Thorold.

The coroner's jury blame owner McDonald in connection with the Montreal tobacco factory fire.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, of London, Eng., has been elected president of the Grand Trunk railway company.

A special jury received from Fraser-ville, Que., says that two young men named Alon and Bernhe were drowned while hunting muskrats at Riviere Vert.

Hans Hagens, formerly member of the Quebec city council and for many years a prominent shipowner and ship broker of Quebec, died recently, aged 74 years.

The other afternoon about 2 o'clock an old woman, Mrs. Lingstrum, of Pembroke, fell down stairs and fractured her skull. She died about one hour afterwards.

John Baxter, of Toronto, assistant police magistrate, and for many years one of the most prominent aldermen of that city, died recently of paralysis. He was 69 years of age.

Mr. James Caruthers, a leading grain dealer of Montreal, imported ten cars of red winter wheat from Detroit, paying 15 cents a bushel. The wheat will be consumed by Ontario millers.

Rev. John Young, of Henoch's church, Toronto, was recently chosen at the meeting of the congregation of St. John's Presbyterian church, to fill the pulpit which has been vacant for a year. The salary offered is $1,000.

The North Brant Reform association have nominated Daniel Burt, of St. George, as candidate to fill the vacancy in the provincial parliament caused by the resignation of W. B. Wood, M. P. P., to accept the registration of Brant.

The Brantford branch of the Consumers' Cordage company, has been bought by a company consisting of the present local manager, P. L. Connor, and N. K. Connelly, of Quebec, M. Connelly of Montreal, and John Connor, St. John, N. B.

The forests in Frontenac county, Ont., are in a blaze. Thousands of dollars worth of timber have already been destroyed. Men women and children fought the flames fanned by an eastern wind, from destroying Donaldson's mills and at the critical moment the wind changed.

The four-year-old son of Mrs. C. Lacroix, clerk at Z. Paquet's store, Que., fell from the window of the fourth story of his father's residence, and died shortly after. This is the second child of Mr. Lacroix who is the victim of an accident since last year, when his seventeen-year-old son was killed by the cars at the C. P. R. station.

The Roman Catholic council of public instruction at Quebec recently, voted down the measure to establish uniformity of school books in Catholic schools. Notwithstanding the rejection of the system of uniformity, the discussion of the measure had indirectly a practical effect, because quite a number of books were put aside as unfit for education.

A Montreal Star cable from London says: I have been given to understand that Principal Peterson, of Dundee college, whose name was given prominence in the same connection some time ago, has been offered the principalship of McGill university, and that he has been urged to accept the position. Professor Peterson, it is further stated, will make known his decision in the matter shortly. There is every probability that he will accept.

The civic fire committee of Montreal, adopted a resolution that the committee was of opinion that the McDonald tobacco factory was not sufficiently provided with fire escapes, and those which did exist were not situated in the proper portions of the building. It will be remembered that the factory in question was destroyed by fire two weeks ago, and in the panic which resulted many employees were injured, four of whom have since died.

A deputation of military men at Ottawa urged Foster and Dickey to provide for drill of the militia this year. Foster said rural militia would be drilled and money provided in the supplementary estimates, and an effort made to save enough on other branches of military estimates to drill city corps. Foster severely condemned over expenditure in the past on the permanent corps, and maintained, he believed, by starving the active militia.

Death of Sir Robert Peel. Right Hon. Sir Robert Peel, who was the chief secretary for Ireland from 1801 to 1805 died in London, Eng., the other day.

The Right Hon. Sir Robert Peel, Bart., G.C.B., P.C., was eldest son of the late Sir Robert Peel, second bart., was born May 4, 1822, educated at Harrow and at Christ Church, Oxford, and then entered the diplomatic service. He was attache to the British embassy at Madrid from June, 1844, till May, 1846, when he was appointed secretary to the British legation in Switzerland; became Charge d'affaires in November, 1846 and retired in December, 1850. He was a lord of the admiralty from February, 1855, till May, 1857, and was chief secretary for Ireland from July, 1861, till December, 1865. He acted as secretary to the special commission to Russia at the coronation of Alexander II., in 1865. Sir R. Peel was returned one of the members in the Liberal interest, for Tamworth, soon after the death of his father, whom he succeeded in the baronetcy, July 2, 1850, and retained the seat till March, 1880. He was sworn a privy councillor July, 1861, and made a G. C. B. January 5, 1866. He took a prominent part in the debates of the House of Commons, especially on Irish questions, and subjects affecting the foreign policy of the country. He sat as a conservative for Huntingdon in 1845-48, and for Blackburn from 1855-58. At the general election of 1886 he stood as a Home Ruler for Inverness Burghs, but was defeated by Mr. R. B. Finlay, Unionist. Sir R. Peel married a daughter of the Marquis of Tweeddale, and sister of the Dowager Duchess of Wellington.

COLLEGE IN DISPUTE.

Prospective Litigations Over the Medical College.

In the year 1884 the Manitoba Medical college at Winnipeg was granted incorporation by the Provincial Legislature. The original incorporators were Drs. Kerr, Good, Blanchard, Jones, Patterson, Wilson, R. B. Ferguson, A. H. Ferguson, Sutherland, Falford, McDiarmid, Brett and Whiteford. By a special clause these gentlemen were constituted the first faculty or teaching staff of the college. These original incorporators purchased the land and paid for it, borrowing $14,000 and erected the old part of the present building. For this $14,000 a mortgage on lot and building was given together with the personal bond of the thirteen original incorporators for repayment. Without remuneration during the early years of the college the incorporators conducted the business and taught the scholars. As members of the teaching staff died or removed from the province, new men were appointed as teachers, who, when they became sufficiently numerous asserted the claim to be treated as members of the corporation. This claim was the cause of much controversy which culminated in 1891, when these young men, together with three of the original incorporators applied to the legislature to amend the act of 1884, and by a new act make the teachers the incorporators. The legislature assented, repealing the act of 1884, and by the enactment of 1894 created a new corporation having all the privileges and rights held by the first body. This act, however, omitted to make arrangements to transfer the property of the old corporation (i.e. the college building and lot) to the new, as such a procedure would have been ultra vires. Therefore this old body is now completing its title to the building and lots, and intends to take possession of the college, and if resisted make good its claim by law.

A complicated feature of the case is the fact that the new board in 1894 paid off the old mortgage with monies at the disposal of the college, and re-mortgaged the building and improvements for $5,000. It is now claimed that such a loan could not be made upon the building without the consent of the owners—viz., the old faculty and that the mortgage company must look to the personal bond of the new incorporators for their security for the loan. If the old board makes good its claim, and secures control of the college it is not its intention to allow the course of the medical school to be interfered with, but would be willing to rent the building to its present occupants at a reasonable figure. The point which the old faculty is specially insisting on in this matter is the recognition of its rights of ownership.

BLOODSHED IN CHICAGO.

Police Endeavor to Disperse a Mob of Strikers and are Pelted With Stones.

Four policemen were injured and one striker fatally shot in a riot by the Illinois Steel company strikers at South Chicago recently. The riot followed a mass meeting of strikers, at which about 500 men were present and the speeches became so violent and the men so demonstrative that the leaders forced an adjournment. The crowd would not disperse, however, and the riot call brought a detail of police officers to the scene. The police ordered the crowd to disperse, but the order met with hoots and threats, two strikers with hoots charged with drawn revolvers and were met with volleys of stones and slugs. Police Lieutenant Wagner and a patrolman fell, and the other officers opened fire, sending about twenty-five shots into the crowd. At the beginning of the firing the strikers fled. Four leaders were arrested and one striker shot through the head will die. None of the policemen were fatally hurt. After the shooting the rioters gathered in groups about the steel works, threatening vengeance and trouble is anticipated by the police and the company's store of dynamite is heavily guarded.

A few hours later a fight occurred in the company's yard, and it was found necessary to call in the police. The strikers for a time stood their ground against the officers, but were soon routed and driven from the premises. The men most seriously hurt were: Jack Shepherd, machinist, struck on the head by a hammer in the hands of a striker, severalscap wound, rendered unconscious will recover. Edward Shaska, striker, thrown out of machine shop by workmen, body bruised. Officer Leindecker, hit with coupling pin, bad cut over his right eye. Officer Patrick McCauley, hit in the mouth with a brick.

Twenty-eight men who are said to have been leaders of the strikers at the rioting were arrested and locked up in the South Chicago police station. They are all charged with rioting. They are all ignorant Hungarians, Poles and Bohemians. According to Vice-President Forsythe, of the company, this spring the furnace men signed the scale of wages calling for a rate of $2.10 per day. This scale has been observed up to the present time, but the men now demand that they be paid at the rate of last year, which was somewhat higher.

It is reported that Liberals will move for the expulsion of McGreevy.

LITERARY COMPETITION.

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS OFFERED IN PRIZES.

BY THE DR. WILLIAMS' MEDICINE CO., OF BROCKVILLE, ONT.

The Above Amount Will be Divided Among the Writers of the Best Five Original Stories—The Competition Open to all Bona Fide Residents of Canada.

With a view to assisting in the development of literary talent in Canada, the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award prizes amounting to $300 among the writers of the best five short original stories submitted in the competition as follows:

For the story pronounced the best $100 will be given.
For the second best $75.
For the third best $50.
For the fourth best $40.
For the fifth best $25.

The competition is open to residents of the Dominion of Canada, who have never won a cash prize in a story competition, and is subject to the following rules:

Each story to contain not more than three thousand words.

The writer of the story will affix a pen name, initials or motto to his or her manuscript, and shall send with the manuscript a sealed envelope bearing on the outside the pen name, initials or motto attached to the story, and containing inside it the full name and address of the writer thereof.

We impose no limitations whatever as to the nature of the topic written upon, and the scene of the story need not necessarily be laid in Canada, though competitors must be residents of Canada, as above stated.

Stories written in the competition must be written on one side of the paper only, and when possible should be typewritten.

Manuscripts to be sent flat or folded—NOT ROLLED.

All stories for competition must reach the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., on or before the first day of July, 1895, and should be marked "For Literary Competition."

Decision will be made as follows:—All stories submitted will be referred to a competent committee who will decide which are the best five stories. These stories will then be published in pamphlet form, which pamphlets will be distributed throughout the Dominion, and each will contain a voting paper upon which readers will be invited to express their preference. The story obtaining the greatest number of votes will be awarded the first prize. The one obtaining the second highest number will be awarded second prize, and so on until the five prizes are awarded.

The voting will close on the first day of December, 1895, and the committee will then publish the names of the successful competitors and the order of merit.

Unsuccessful manuscripts will be returned when stamps are sent for postage. The five stories selected are to become the absolute property of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., with their copyright in perpetuity.

The decision of the committee and the counting of votes to be absolute and final, and all persons entering the competition agree, by doing so, to accept the decisions of the committee and the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., as final on all points whatsoever.

Correspondence in regard to unsuccessful M. S. S. declined, even when stamped envelopes are sent; any stamps so sent (for any other purpose than the return of the M. S. at the time of first sending) will be put in the poor box.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., will take all precautions to safeguard M. S. entrusted to their care, but in no case do they assume any responsibility for fire, accident or loss of unsuccessful M. S. Authors are then advised to keep copies.

The stories must be original. Any one sending copied matter will be liable to punishment for fraud, and a prize of $25, offered to the first person who points out the fact that any story passed by the committee is otherwise than original, in the unlikely event of such an oversight occurring.

All stories entered in the competition must be addressed to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and marked on the envelope "For Literary Competition."

ROSEBERRY A SICK MAN.

He Looks Worried and Pale—Unable to Speak With Certainty.

There were times in the course of Lord Roseberry's speech at the National Liberal club's reception the other night when England's premier faltered and appeared to lose the thread of his argument. This happened several times and lasted several minutes in spite of the fact that he was repeatedly reminded by Earl Spencer and Campbell Bannerman. Meanwhile the premier gazed about him in a dazed sort of way that was painful to see. When he recovered himself he was inclined to end his remarks then and there, but he was persuaded to proceed, which he did with great effort. Some ascribe his condition to the use of drugs, but others hold it was due to loss of memory, which has followed his recent illness and his prolonged struggle with insomnia. The premier looked pale and worried, and far from the robust man he was a few months' ago.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Two Men Struck Down While at Work in Duluth.

Side by side on a slab in a morgue at Duluth, lie the bodies of Charles Amory and George Barshaw. These two men and William Helm were in a row boat in the bay getting logs into a boom for the Inman Tug line. A thunder storm came up and there was a flash of lightning that struck Amory and Barshaw, who were in the two ends of the boat. Helm, who was in the middle of the boat, was knocked senseless, although uninjured, and a moment later, when he had recovered consciousness he saw Amory's body in the water and grabbed him, holding on until help came. Barshaw's clothing was stripped from him in various places as neatly as if he had done it himself. Both shoes and stockings were taken off and one of the shoes was torn into shreds. Amory was 36 years old, and left his wife and children in West Bay City, Mich., only a week ago to secure work in Duluth. Barshaw was single and 25 years old.

SUFFERING FROM CONSTIPATION.

Expected to be in the Asylum—After all Other Remedies Failed B. B. B. Made a Perfect Cure, Restoring Robust Health.

GENTLEMEN.—To say all I ought to in favor of B. B. B. would be impossible. It has been a great health restorer to me, and I do swear by it. I am a different man now to what I was ten years ago when it was expected I would be in the asylum, but now I am in perfect robust health, and it was B. B. B. that did it.

I suffered for five or six years from constipation, sometimes so severely that I went out of my mind. I tried various doctors, both in the country and in the city, and took medicines too numerous to mention, but everything failed to have the desired effect. When I used Burdock Blood Bitters, however, it succeeded beyond all expectations, requiring only two bottles to cure me. To make it more certain that B. B. B. is the real cure for Constipation, I may say that some two years afterwards I felt the symptoms returning and took one bottle more, and from that time to the present day (over eight years) I have never had any return of the disease. I never knew any medicine to work so well. It does not seem to be a mere reliever but a sure and certain cure, as I can certify to, for hundreds of dollars worth of medicines and advice failed to do me any good, but three dollars' worth of B. B. B. made a permanent cure that has given me years of health and comfort.

Yours truly,

C. L. KILMER.

OVER THIRTY LOST.

Sealing Schooners Wrecked in Behring Sea.

News has been received at Victoria, B. C., of the loss of the sealing schooner Walter A. Earle, in Behring Sea. The crew of twenty-three hands are drowned.

Mail advices to Port Townsend, Wash., from Kodiak, Alaska, by the steamer Topeka, confirm the report that the schooner C. D. White, of San Francisco was wrecked in agale and snow storm on Kodiak Island, Behring Sea, April 22. One letter says eleven lives were lost, and another places the loss at seventeen. Capt. Isaacson, after the vessel struck the rock, drifted ashore on a piece of wreckage, but died an hour afterwards from exposure.

The sealing schooner Dora Steward, which arrived at Victoria, recently, also brings news of the loss of the Victoria schooner. Walter A. Earle, with all hands, off Cape St. Elias, on Easter day. The Earle was commanded by Capt. Louis Magneue, with a crew of 23 men, partly Indian.

Plate Glass Trust.

The newly formed plate glass trust became an accomplished fact at Pittsburgh, the other day, when under the agreement the combination formally assumed control of all the plants wherever located. These have now lost their identity, and will be known as the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company. The trust which has a capital of ten millions, will be absolutely controlled by John P. Cairn, of Philadelphia, and Edward Ford, of Philadelphia.

PURE & WHOLESOME

Force Pump.

Why?—It is two force pumps in one.
1. It throws more water with less labor than any other.
2. It will force water from any depth to any distance with pressure of air in the hose, such as it requires a fire engine for protection in case of fire.
3. It is always primed and lubricated.
4. It cannot freeze.
5. It has no leather sucker to get out of order.

TURKISH TORTURE.

ARMENIANS BEATEN, CHAINED AND SUSPENDED BY THE FEET.

Because They Decline to Relieve Themselves to Please the Sultan—A Meeting in London to Protest Against the Outrages—A Letter From Gladstone.

The London Daily News publishes advice received from its correspondent at Kars, saying that 800 survivors of the recent massacre in Armenia, who returned to their homes under promise of protection from the Turks, are being daily persecuted and tortured at the hands of Turkish officials, supported by the gendarmes. For two months, it is added, officials have tried to force the refugees to sign an address of thanks to the sultan, stating that they have met with only kindness at the hands of the troops and that all troubles were caused by Kurdish raiders and the slaughter. Those refusing to sign the address are beaten, placed in chains and are suspended for hours by their feet. Women were outraged and soldiers forced women and children to sign the address.

A meeting to protest against the Armenian outrages was held recently in St. James' hall, London, Eng., the Duke of Argyll presiding, and the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. On one of the walls in the hall was a large placard, on which was inscribed the text of article of the Berlin treaty, reading: "The sublime porte undertakes to carry out, without further delay, the improvements and reforms demanded by local requirements in the provinces inhabited by the Armenians and to guarantee their security against Circassians and Kurds. It will periodically make known the steps taken to this effect to the powers who will superintend their application." Above the placard was the legend: "The Armenians claim the right to live peacefully in their native land." Telegrams of sympathy were received from Armenia, the British Colonies, Bulgaria, Cairo, Paris, Athens, Macedonia, and elsewhere.

On the platform were the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, Lord Halifax, Lord Northbrook, the lord mayor of Liverpool, Lady Henry Somerset, Mr. Francis S. Stevenson, M. P., chairman of the Anglo-Armenian association, Sir John H. Kennaway, M. P., and president of the Church Missionary Society, and Sir George R. Sitwell.

In his speech opening the meeting, the Duke of Argyll said it was a hopeless task to overcome the causes of corruption in Turkey. It was now the absolute duty of the British government to assume an active executive part in the Armenian question. It was its duty to open the windows and let in the light.

Lady Henry Somerset addressed the meeting. She declared the Crescent would henceforth stand forth before the eyes of the nations as a thing as impossible to be cleaned as was the hand of Lady Macbeth. It was fitting that a woman's voice should be uplifted for the Armenian women. A hundred thousand women wearing the white ribbon were invisibly present with her as she stood trying to represent their holy indignation and their burning love for their sisters in the clutch of the harem despot at Constantinople.

A letter from the Right Hon. William E. Gladstone to the Duke of Argyll was read. In it Mr. Gladstone said:

"I hope that the meeting that you have bravely undertaken to preside over will produce an effect proportioned to the gravity of the cause which occasioned it. It is with the most sincere grief that now, when it appears that the extreme of the shameful outrages in Armenia cannot any longer be treated as a matter of doubt, I contemplate the infatuation of the Turkish government, determined, it would seem to do everything possible to produce its own ruin."

"After remarking that it might be expected the recollection of the Bulgarian horrors might have had the effect of preventing repetition, Mr. Gladstone declares that Europe's duty is to place no reliance upon mere words, but to adopt effective methods to prevent a recurrence. I am confident that England will not shrink from her duty, and I trust she will have the firm co-operation of France and Russia. If the other powers refrain, it is to be regretted on their own account." The letter concludes with expressing the hope that moral pressure will suffice to induce the sultan and advisers to "suppress these deeds of shame."

Speeches were made by Dr. Clifford, Canon McCall and Lord Provost of Edinburgh, Canon Wilberforce, the bishop of Sassa and the bishop of Hereford. The latter in the course of his remarks, made a political allusion which was met with cries of "No party politics allowed."

IDEA ABANDONED.

The Newfoundland Government has dropped Confederation.

The St. John's Daily News, independent, says that it is an open secret that confederation with Canada has practically been abandoned. The government has decided to repudiate the course of the delegates to Ottawa and will attempt to carry the country by means of retrenchment. The scheme includes the cutting down of the judicial departments, public grants and certain offices. The government will then appeal to English and American financiers for a loan to cover the present crippling liabilities. It is expected that these financiers will be satisfied to lend the money required on the promised genuineness of the retrenchment. The legislature adjourned owing to the non-receipt of despatches from the imperial government, which are necessary before the delegates to Ottawa can communicate to the house the terms of confederation.

Priest Deposited.

Bishop Matz, of Colorado, has deposited Rev. Father Marian Lepore, pastor of Mount Carmel church, Denver, who was found guilty by the ecclesiastical court of undue familiarity with women of his parish, dishonesty in politics, and other conduct, unbecoming a representative of the church. At the trial affidavits from citizens of Jersey City, alleging embezzlement, adultery, gambling, drunkenness and like misdemeanors while he was in charge of a church in that city, were presented. It was shown that he had promulgated a blasphemous revision of the Ten Commandments, in which he exalted his congregation to a method of living far from being in accordance with the teachings of the church. Father Lepore is a young man who arrived in Denver about two years ago. He has never been ordained to the priesthood in America but was given a temporary appointment on the request of the Italian church. The church property at Mount Carmel is said to be in a deplorable condition, on account of Lepore's mismanagement. Lepore claims the church property is in his own name, and defies the bishops power to relieve him. He will appeal to Rome.

ROSSA WAS EJECTED.

Remarkable Scene in the Imperial Commons.

There was an exciting and unprecedented scene in the House of Commons, London, Eng., the other afternoon. Just as the Chief Secretary for Ireland, John Morley, had finished a speech discussing the bill of Edmund F. V. Knox, anti-Parnellite, to repeal the crimes act, O'Donovan Rossa, the well known Irish agitator, of New York, arose from his seat in the strangers' gallery and exclaimed: "Mr. Speaker, an assassin's blow has been aimed at me in this house and a stain has been put on my name."

Rossa's remarks were greeted with loud shouts of "Order."

Finally, the sergeant-at-arms summarily ejected Rossa from the house. A previous speaker, it appears, had alluded in uncomplimentary terms of O'Donovan Rossa, and it was this which caused him to enter a protest from the gallery. Rossa, after having been ejected from the house by the sergeant-at-arms, was turned over to the policeman on duty with instructions not to allow him again within the precincts of the house of parliament.

Rossa got a seat in the strangers' gallery, through Mr. Edward Barry, member for the south division of Cork. As Rossa passed through the members' lobby he met Mr. John William Macleure, a well known merchant of Manchester, member for the Stratford division of Lancashire, who was high sheriff of Manchester at the time the Manchester martyrs were hung in 1847. Rossa chatted with him for a few minutes, and then took his seat in the gallery. He soon began a nervous shuffling, and produced a document purporting to be a letter written by Mr. Henry Labouchere, warning somebody in America against Rossa. With this letter in his hands, Rossa suddenly rose, as already described. In regard to the letter which O'Donovan Rossa is said to have had in his hands while in the house of commons, it is stated that a Mr. St. Clair, of New York, wrote to Mr. Labouchere, asking if it was true that he had asserted that O'Donovan Rossa had received money from the British government. The reply which Mr. St. Clair is reported to have received is: "Yes, and I repeat the assertion. I hardly suppose that he himself will deny it." O'Donovan Rossa says that if he had been allowed to continue his speech he would have read this letter and would have challenged the government to say if he ever received money from them.

SUICIDE BY POISON.

A Sick Despondent Canadian Found Dead in a Buffalo Cemetery.

The body of Hadley E. Beaton, a native of Toronto, Ont., was recently found lying above a grave in the Forest Lawn cemetery, Buffalo. The man had been dead for several hours. His body was well dressed in a blue suit, and his linen was clean and neat. He appeared to be 35 years of age, and was short and rather heavily built. In the inside coat pocket were three letters that told the story of the man's death. It was a case of suicide by poisoning. The letters were neatly written in lead pencil. One was addressed to Mrs. Eliza Beaton, 173 East James St., and began: "My dear wife," It told a sorry story of sickness, drink and discouragement. He says he made an unsuccessful search for work in Buffalo, and Rochester and returned to Buffalo completely broken down. "I would have been all right if I had only had a little backing, but lost confidence in myself," he wrote. The letter indicates that the wife will receive some money on the writer's death. Near the spot where the body lay was found a bottle with the label torn off. A few drops of fluid was in the bottom and had a strong pungent smell. They were evidently the remains of the poison used by the suicide to end his life. The body was taken to the morgue where it was later identified by the suicide's wife. Mrs. Beaton said her husband was born in Toronto about 35 years ago, but had lived in Buffalo for a number of years. His mother died last fall and left an estate of about $1,000. She was buried at Forest Lawn and it was probable his wish to be near her grave in death that caused him to go to the cemetery to end his life.

FRUIT FROM THE WEST.

A British Columbia Canning Firm Captures the Winnipeg Market.

Mr. S. M. O'Keefe, managing director of the firm of O'Keefe & Morris, fruit preserving company, of Victoria, has been spending the past week in Winnipeg. Three years ago Mr. O'Keefe and his partner built a factory in Victoria, and their business has turned out a most successful one. The chief point of interest about their trade is that Winnipeg is the market for the whole of the output of canned fruits, jams, marmalades, lemon orange and citron peels, and confectionaries of all kinds. Wholesale grocers in Winnipeg pay more for the manufactured fruit from that eastern goods. They must, therefore, turn out a superior article. G. F. and J. Galt, Turner, McKeand & Co., and others have bought five carloads of fruit from Mr. O'Keefe, which will be delivered in August. This is the second business trip of this gentleman and he has good reasons to be satisfied with its results. He says that in canned fruits they put up 10,000 lbs last year in excess of their manufacture the season previous, and that this year the trade required an extra 25,000 pounds. Last year 800 dozen glass, or jams put up in glass jars, were sent out, and this year there is a demand already for 1,500 dozen. About twelve tons more citron and lemon peel is required than for 1893. About one car load of these goods will be switched off at Calgary for G. F. & J. Galt, to save freight, the rest comes down to Winnipeg.

Mr. O'Keefe was asked if he could enter into competition with the manufacturers in the States, but replied that the duty made it impossible. "Our market," he said, "was Winnipeg, and we wish for no better one."

A RUN ON THREE BANKS.

Malicious Reports Circulated Regarding Newfoundland Financial Institutions.

Some malicious person or persons started the report in St. John's, Nfld., the other evening that the Bank of Montreal, the Merchants Bank of Halifax and the Bank of Nova Scotia were in a shaky condition. The origin of the report cannot be traced. The following morning there was considerable run on the banks, but it was not panicky. The bank managers are considerably annoyed, but smile at the absurdity of the report and are paying out gold to all who ask for it. Many believe that some over zealous anti confederates have started it in order to damage Canadian institutions and raise a feeling against confederation.

Another banking scare occurred at the same place on the same day. A story was circulated that the Bank of Montreal had suspended. The rumor was traced to a number of anti confederate fanatics, who are constantly starting damaging reports. But the public were so badly bitten in the late banking disasters that the rumor was easily swallowed, and there was a run on every bank in the city, causing great excitement. Crowds of people surrounded each banking institution, where the officials were paying out gold as demanded. All the banks have large reserves of gold, as owing to the unsettled condition of affairs during the past three months most of the people refuse to handle notes, but convert them into gold immediately they are obtained. There is no apprehension of danger to any of the banks. The managers all say that they have an abundance of gold to meet any possible call, and it is expected that the panic will have soon subsided.

The run was heaviest on the Government Savings Bank, which is supported by the Bank of Montreal, though there was also a run on the Bank of Nova Scotia and Merchants Bank. Each bank stood by the others, not hesitating to redeem the others notes, and by their air of confidence and liberal display of heaps of gold coin, the panic was allayed, so there was no crush about the teller's windows when the banks closed for the day. Business people took no part in the run; it was confined to the poorer classes, who were most credulous.

A RAILWAY DEAL.

Canada Southern and T. H. & B. to be Amalgamated.

The Buffalo Evening News says with the assumption of authority for its statement that there is little or no doubt of the successful issue of negotiations pending for the amalgamation of the interests of the Canadian Southern road and Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway. The effect of this arrangement will be the identification of the latter enterprise with the interests of the Vanderbilt combination. The objective point of the Vanderbilts is said to be Toronto and an opening to the traffic of Western Ontario. Consummation of the deal will complete a system which embraces all leading eastern and American cities, and direct connection with the big cities of the west. The Adirondack road, connecting with the Central at Herkimer already runs through Ottawa and Montreal. The Canadian Southern although it has ceased to exist in the public still is legally an enterprise separate and distinct from the Michigan Central, which operates it. It is leased by the Vanderbilts for 99 years. It is understood an endeavor will be made through legislation to amalgamate the charters of the Canadian Southern and T. H. and B.

THEY PUT HER TO SLEEP.

Toronto Clergyman's Wife Narrowly Escapes Death.

The wife of Rev. Louis H. Jordan, one of the leading Presbyterian ministers of the city of Toronto, has just recovered from a dose administered to her by a servant girl. While Mr. Jordan was out of town recently the servant girls arranged to give a tea party and to have the house to themselves. They procured a sleeping draught and gave it to Mrs. Jordan. The drug acted in such a manner that the girls became afraid and by their own actions the matter was discovered. Mr. Jordan refused to prosecute the girls, contenting himself with dismissing them.

BLOWN TO BITS.

The American Powder Company's Mill Goes Up in Smoke.

One of the powder mills of the American Powder Company, at South Acton, Mass., blew up, and a few minutes later a second mill, situated a hundred yards away, exploded. The fire caused by the explosion spread to the third mill, known as the "booming" mill, which in a few minutes more blew up. Five persons have been killed. The woods close by the mills were set on fire and burned fiercely threatening the big storehouse of the company, containing 20,000 pounds of powder.

When a Woman Whistles.

It is particularly unlucky for a woman to whistle, because it is said that while the nails were being forged for our Lord's cross a woman stood by and whistled. Of course it is no worse for a woman to whistle than for a man, but you know how a woman does a thing—whole hog or none—and the craze has gone so far that severe remedies must be adopted to suppress her effusion. Suppose we get them to practice before a mirror? If she knew how the pucker distorts her pretty lips, she would refrain perhaps. Minerva disgustfully threw away her pipe with an imprecation when she beheld in the water the disfigurement of her lovely face caused by her musical performance. —Exchange.

The Tact of Louis Agassiz.

A middle aged woman once attended a dinner in California, at which Agassiz was present. "I shall never forget," she says, "the exquisite tact and simplicity with which that grand old man, near whom I was seated, listened to me and drew me out with great appearance of interest in the little nothings that I uttered. Nobody could possibly have suspected that I was a nonentity and he the guest of honor. The positions were reversed whenever he spoke to me." —New York Times.

He Was Wrong.

"Well," said a facetious stranger to a member of the brass band, "there is one thing for you to be thankful for." "What is that?" inquired the musician. "You can always blow your own horn." "Nem, my friend. Dis cornet is no rowel." —Detroit Free Press.

MILES OF FROZEN FISH.

QUEER PHENOMENON ENCOUNTERED IN BEHRING SEA.

Singular Condition in Which a Fishing Crew Found Vast Numbers of the Silver Hake—The Occurrence Without a Parallel—A Wonderful Sight.

The recently returned salmon fishers, whalers and sealers from the Arctic tell of a strange thing—an occurrence without a parallel in the experience of those who sail to the far north, says the San Francisco Chronicle. A sea captain who was a passenger on the salmon schooner Glenn tells the story with much circumstance. The Glenn left this city in March last bound for Behring sea, which was reached on May 1. In the latter month there is usually a little drift ice, but seldom enough to interfere materially with the progress of the many whalers, sealers, and other craft which make for the sea at that time of year.

This season, however, the sea was literally covered with drift ice extending from the Alaskan peninsula clear across northward to the Yukon. The southeast winds usually blow off shore, and, driving the ice further from the land, leave a passage between ice and land. The Glenn intended to make Bristol bay and stood to the eastward, but was unable to reach it on account of the ice, and so had to put back toward the peninsula to await the delayed southeast winds.

It was while the Glenn and four others passed up toward Bristol bay that the phenomenon was encountered. The vessel had just emerged from Omimik pass, about half way between Amukhta island and Bristol bay, when a vast quantity of dead fish was encountered. They were in the water as far as the eye could see on each side of the vessel, and for sixty miles the Glenn traveled through the shoals of fish.

On examination they proved to be silver hake, a kind of codfish, but narrower and smaller and having only two dorsal and anal fin. They weighed between four and five pounds and were perfectly fresh, the gills being still red. Some of the sailors were afraid to eat them, thinking perhaps they had been killed by some subterranean upheaval, or possibly, through the overflow from the volcano of Weyamnor, which was active last fall. Other sailors less fastidious did not hesitate to cut the fish open, and then a peculiar condition was revealed. Although the fish were fresh and had not stiffened, the gills and intestines were found to be full of ice. This was not the case in one instance, but every fish which was opened, and apparently accounted for their deaths in such large numbers.

The anomalous condition of the fish was the subject of much talk and speculation. That the fish should be comparatively limber and that there should be ice within them seemed to indicate that a shoal of them had been suddenly overtaken and frozen to death, and on the thawing out of the ice, the carcasses had been released, but had not risen in temperature sufficiently to thaw out the ice in their bodies. Those of the sailors who cooked the fish said that they tasted as good as ever, and that they were not tainted by sulphur as they might have been in the event of their death being due to a sudden subterranean upheaval.

The gentleman who is authority for the story has been traveling every season to the Arctic since 1888, and never had seen such a shoal of dead fish, nor yet discovered fish with their intestines frozen as these had. He also drew attention to the fact that in the seven years of his traveling, though he had often seen black smoke issuing from the Weyamnor volcano, near Port Moller, he never saw it or heard of its being in active eruption until 1893, in the fall. Then it belched hot ashes and flames, and the roar was like artillery. This volcano is close to the shore, and the line of fish extended almost as far north as to a point opposite it. The captain does not maintain that there was any connection between the facts of the eruption in the fall and the finding of the fish in the spring, but merely states the facts as they existed, leaving to others to trace any connection or reject any association of the phenomena.

The area of the frozen fish was not less than half a mile wide and sixty miles long. When the Glenn, on its homeward journey, reached Omimik pass again, on August 29, every sign of the fish had disappeared. Many had doubtless been eaten by the gulls and other birds, and others had sunk in the warm water. As far as the captain could state, there was no other fish of any kind except the silver hake in the shoal. The carcasses had been perhaps almost as suddenly released from their bonds of ice as they had been entombed.

TROUBLE SQUELCHED.

Halfbreeds Arrested by the United States Marshals.

The difficulty with the Indians and halfbreeds is practically at an end. The marshals went to Rolla, N. D., the other night, fearing that the rebels would make an attempt to rescue Langan, one of their number, who had been arrested. Marshal Cronan has decided that further efforts at inducing a peaceful surrender were useless, as he determined if they would not surrender their fort at Langan to storm it. The posse left Rolla in a wagon and drove sixteen miles to the breed fort. As it was known they had mounted scouts in the direct road, the posse struck east, coming upon them in an unexpected direction, as they had no time to gather from outlying camps. The wagons were left half a mile in the rear and the marshals advanced spreading out so as to command the north and west side, being the easiest of access. Spaulds had been brought and the marshals began preparing shallow rifle pits. Marshal Cronan and Indian agent Hall, leaving their rifles behind, walked up to the fort, the deputies being on a sharp lookout for any hostile movement.

The breeds refused to talk with Cronan, but told Hall they wanted still further time to hear from Washington. Cronan told them to make up their minds right quick, as he meant to attack them at once. His plan was for the deputies on the stable side to work up as close as possible by means of a temporary cover thrown up by spades, by which time it was thought that much of the ammunition would have been exhausted, then for a general rush from both house and stable sides. In a short time Cronan was ready to begin, when the breeds sent out a message that they wanted to see him. He returned word that they could send one of their chiefs, and they sent Chasseur-Le-Potreau, who was chief in the raid in the St. John hardware store when they stole all the guns and ammunition. Le-Potreau wanted time to hear from Washington. He was told that it was too late. He then offered to surrender the men for whom warrants are out except Red Thunder. But Cronan told him he would give no conditions. They must surrender absolutely and give up all arms and ammunition. He should arrest all he wanted. If he didn't like these terms the marshals came there to fight and were ready. All this time the deputies had been working nearer and now had a temporary cover provided within 150 yards, at which Winchester bullets would easily riddle the logs. Soon after the breeds surrendered unconditionally.

Only those for whom warrants were already out were taken to town, the others being allowed to go for the present. They are Red Thunder, Joe Langan, Joe Demore, Chasseur-Le-Potreau, Francois Langan, A. Loroque, Daniel Short. Red Thunder made a desperate resistance when arrested, attacking Deputy Daggett with his knife. It took three to handcuff him. He is almost 97 years old, he was almost crazy with maniacal strength.

While negotiations were pending he had tried to kill one of his breeds for favoring surrender. The prisoners were taken to Rolla.

It is the intention to arrest all present for armed conspiracy. Chief Little Shell was arrested on the reservation. When returning to the agency after the surrender, Agent Hall met a band of 150 breeds and Indians on the way to St. John to reinforce the breeds at Langan. They were headed by Little Shell, head chief of the reservation. He succeeded in persuading them to turn back, informing them that the others had all surrendered.

TWISTED TOWNS.

Terrible Work of the Recent Cyclone in Iowa.

The Journal's Sioux City special says: One of the most destructive and terrific cyclones which ever visited the northwest corner of the state of Iowa, passed through a portion of Sioux Centre early the other evening. The storm appeared to originate three miles northeast of Ironton, passing in a northeasterly direction. Near Perkins it first struck the ground, and from there a distance of twelve to fifteen miles not a building was left standing in its path. The most unfortunate thing of all was that its course was on a section line of school houses, and so far too teachers are known to have been killed. Miss Anna Marsden and her brothers, with one to four children at each school. Four school houses, where school was in session, were entirely wiped from the face of the earth, not a vestige being left except a few racks to mark where they stood, and the pupils were carried from a quarter to half a mile, where they were found some dead, and others badly injured. At the school house where George Marsden was teaching, not a vestige of the building remained, and Mr. Marsden was found some distance away in a field, dead, with two scholars. Two little girls of John Koster, belonging to the same school, were found clinging to each other, where they had been driven into a wire fence, covered with mud and are expected to die. Two sons of C. H. Haggie, belonging to the same school, had both legs broken, and are internally injured. The residence of C. Haggie is just west of the school house, and where stood good buildings, nothing is left, while Mr. Haggie escaped without permanent injury. His eldest daughter was found lodged in a tree, where she had been hurled by the storm and seriously injured. Two grown boys who had come from the field at the approach of the storm, were injured, one seriously, and the other fatally. Horses, cattle and vehicles were hurled through the air like chaff, and the country for three-quarters of a mile by half a mile long, is entirely wrecked. It is impossible to give the number of dead and wounded. At least fifty-two people are believed to have been killed.

TO DRAIN A SWAMP.

A Scheme for Converting the St. Andrew's Marsh Into a Hay Field.

A few days ago Mr. S. J. Jackson, M. P. P. and Mr. J. A. Macdonnell, government engineer, drove to the northern part of the municipality of Rockwood in connection with the scheme for the drainage of the marshes of St. Andrew's. Mr. Jackson was presented with a numerous signed petition from the residents and landowners in the vicinity of the bog, requesting that the work be speedily undertaken under the provision of the recent drainage act.

The scheme will reclaim about 125,000 acres of land between Rockwood and St. Andrew's parish, which land at present is hay marsh, swamp and peat bog. It will be transformed by drainage into agricultural and hay lands. The plan is to drain the bog through Wavy Creek on the south, and by cutting an independent channel to the head of Stony Creek at the north. Information at present in the hands of the department is not complete, so that it is impossible to definitely state the cost of the undertaking. It is expected that it will be in the neighborhood of $100,000. Mr. Jackson has transferred the petition to the department of public works, and the subject is now before the minister for consideration. Mr. Jackson has also transmitted a request to the council of the municipality of Rosser for aid to certain bridges proposed to be constructed in that municipality.

CLARA FORD NOT GUILTY.

The Accused Was at The Opera House on the Night of the Murder.

The Clara Ford murder trial concluded the other day and resulted in a verdict of "not guilty." In last October young Frank Westwood was shot on his father's doorstep, in Parkdale, and a mystery resulted as to the author of the fatal wound. The detectives followed with a clue which led to the arrest of Clara Ford, who was said to have disguised herself as a man, and shot Westwood out of jealousy. W. C. Murdoch, the eminent criminal lawyer, who had the conduct of the case, brought forward evidence showing that on the night of the murder Clara Ford was at the Toronto Opera House. The jury, after a long absence, brought in a verdict of not guilty, and Clara Ford was given her freedom. In giving evidence in her own behalf Clara Ford declared she was bulldozed into making a confession by Detective Reburn, and denied the confession made at the time of her arrest.

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

A Jury Secured After Fifty-Five Had Been Challenged.

It took two hours to choose a jury in the Hyam's trial. Twenty were challenged by Harry Hyams, twenty by Dallas and fifteen by the crown. The jury as finally selected, is composed of eight farmers and four carpenters. The weakness of Osler's address, in which he reviewed the evidence for the prosecution was commented on. It had none of the vigor characteristic of the speaker. The weights used in the elevator shaft were brought into court, as were boxes of envelopes and other papers used by the prisoners in their business.

Francis Baker, architect, was the first witness, who submitted plans of four floors and basement, after which E. Ayresworth, brother-in-law of Mrs. Harry Hyams, was called to the stand. His evidence was a repetition of that given by him at the preliminary trial, and contained nothing new. He told how Wells, at the instigation of Harry Hyams put so much insurance on his life, of the business—or rather no business—conducted by the prisoners, and explained the structure of the building. This witness was still on the stand when the court rose.

Counsel for defence carefully scrutinized every word of the evidence, and no objectionable question is allowed to go unchallenged. The general opinion is that the case will be the greatest ever tried in Canada. It is expected to last two weeks at least.

Local and General

—Mr. R. Smith, Fort Qu'Appelle, was in town on Monday.

—Mr. Crawley Ricardo, Calgary, arrived in town Saturday.

—An old acquaintance, to wit Thos. Baker, was in town on Tuesday.

—Mr. B. Harvey shot a fine white swan lately, out at Deep Lake.

—Quite a number of flyers are to be observed every day on the race course.

—Messrs. Elkington and Seymour, Fort Qu'Appelle, were in town Friday.

—Mr. W. Scott, brother of Mr. James Scott, was in town for a few days last week.

—Mr. W. Mollineux has been busy repairing the boiler at the creamery lately.

—Telegraph Superintendent Jenkins passed through on his gasoline motor on Monday.

—Severe frosts on Saturday and Sunday night last, ruined fruit and vegetables in the Niagara district, Ontario.

—A report of a school meeting at Lorne was received too late for insertion this week; also Grenfell correspondence.

—The annual meeting of the Eastern Assiniboia Central Conservative association will be held at Wolesley on Thursday, June 13.

—The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will hold a temperance prayer meeting in McLean's hall, on Saturday, at 4 p.m. All are welcome.

—Mr. T. S. Jerrold is fixing up the Leland hotel garden. Bright flowers and sweet perfume will obtain in this locality during the coming summer.

—Dr. Peters of Medicine Hat hospital, was stricken with paralysis on Friday night. Doctors from Banff, Calgary and Winnipeg came to his assistance.

—Reports from all over the country say that the crops are looking splendid and should nothing happen to set them back, will yield the heaviest harvest in years.

—There are to be a couple of football matches in Qu'Appelle on the Queen's birthday, winding up with a ball in the evening under the auspices of the Qu'Appelle Football club.

—Mr. J. W. Greer, an old-time printer, who has lately been working in Winnipeg and Portage la Prairie, dropped in to renew old acquaintance Monday, and left for Regina Tuesday.

—Commissioner Herchmer is in Winnipeg with Inspector Constantine, making arrangements to take a force of mounted police into the Yukon country. The detachment will leave Regina on the 27th inst.

—A grand celebration of the Queen's birthday will be held in Qu'Appelle on Friday, 24th May. A good programme will be provided, consisting of horse racing, bicycle racing, athletic sports, football matches and Indian pow-wow, to wind up with a grand ball. A brass band will be in attendance.

—A meeting of the executive of the Qu'Appelle Branch of the Liberal Conservative association, was held on Saturday afternoon. There was a good attendance. Several matters of interest were discussed, among others the contemplated action of the government in renting the shooting privileges at the Fort Qu'Appelle lakes to a syndicate, mostly composed of Manitoba residents, which was heartily condemned.

—The British steamers Emerald and Maritima collided off the coast of France on Sunday. The Maritima sank and eleven of her crew are missing.

—C. P. R. stock is advancing rapidly. This is induced by the gains the road has made in exchanging land in outlying districts adjacent to it; also increased earnings and the purchasing of stock by foreign investors.

—The Qu'Appelle creamery starts to-day (Thursday). The route followed for the collection of cream will be as follows: Northeast, Tuesdays and Fridays; northwest, Monday and Thursday; southeast, Monday and Thursday; southwest, Wednesday and Saturday.

—The World's W.C.T.U. having set aside Saturday and Sunday, 18th and 19th inst., for days of special prayer for temperance work, the Qu'Appelle W.C.T.U. have requested the Rev. Mr. Bunt to preach on that subject in the Methodist church, Sunday evening. All are invited.

—While taking his stud out to Elgely last week, Mr. Wm. Sides met with what might have been a very serious accident; as it was, one of his arms was badly hurt. It appears that the stud Mr. Sides was leading was attacked by another stud that was running at large, with the result above stated.

—A very sad accident occurred a few miles south of Hamilton last Friday. A young man named Robb was in the act of hitching a team to a roller when the team took fright and ran away, horribly crushing the young man, who died some few hours later. The parents of the deceased moved to Lake Dauphin this spring.

—A case of interest to sporting men, says the Nor'Wester, came before Judge Walker during the session of the county court this week. Mr. Scott, owner of the horse Dick French, has instituted a suit against the Exhibition association for payment of the purse offered in the free-for-all trot last summer, over which there was a difficulty and the judges ruled the race off.

—Another old landmark in the person of Mr. D. H. Starr, of Starr's Point, has gone to that bourne from whence no traveler returns. Mr. Starr had been ailing for about a week with inflammation of the bowels, which terminated fatally on Sunday morning. Mr. Starr had just a few weeks ago lost his wife. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, a large number of friends following the remains to their last resting place. His family have the sympathy of the entire community.

—To those who are interested in the improvement of the breed of horses in this district, we would call attention to the advertisement in another column with reference to the horse Wabana. Surely the breeding of this horse should satisfy the most fastidious, having the blood of such horses as Judge Salisbury, Nutwood, Barney Wilkes, Belmont, Volunteer, George Wilkes, Hambletonian No. 10, on the sire side, and on the side of his dam, Nancy Pope, Kate Darling, Maud S., Dolly Spanker, Lucy Bowen and Lela T.

—John O'Brien, an old Winnipeg printer, was found dead on the prairie seven miles from Fargo, on the 13th inst. He left Fargo about two weeks previous to go to Chicago, and is supposed to have died about that time. Deceased came to Winnipeg in '82 and worked on the Free Press till the advent of machines on that paper. Deceased formerly worked in Detroit and Chicago. A married sister, living somewhere in Pennsylvania, is the only known surviving relative. The printers from Winnipeg to the coast and wherever he was known will feel sorrow for the untimely death of poor Jack, as he was of a most kind and genial disposition. Heart failure is supposed to have caused his death. He was buried by Fargo Typographical union.

—This is a practical joke. We are getting down to the fact that we have but one time to enjoy our lives and that we will do it now. Let health and happiness and save time by riding a bicycle. Winnipeg Saturday Night are going to give four to five hundred of gentlemen reading in the largest list of new subscribers for that paper. There are beautiful wheels and the best made. It is the biggest thing in the way of newspaper premiums ever offered in the west. Some of our enterprising young people should bring one of these wheels to town. Saturday Night is the best printed, illustrated and edited paper for the money sold. See advertisement and then write them quick for sample copies and full instructions.
